Text : More than 250 dead in Algerian military plane crash

Il-76 transporter was carrying soldiers and their families when it crashed soon after takeoff

A military plane carrying soldiers and their families has crashed soon after take off in northern Algeria, killing 257 passengers, made up of Algerian soldiers and their relatives, died along with 10 crew members. The plane was supposed to go from Boufarik to Tindouf, and then on to Bashar. It crashed into a field on Wednesday, next to an airbase in the town of Boufarik, 20 miles (30km) from the capital, Algiers.

An eyewitness told Ennahar he was at home when he heard an explosion, and drove with a neighbor to the site, where they tried to put out the fire and reach victims.

"We saw bodies ... it was a catastrophe," he said.

"We were afraid the plane would explode. We covered some bodies and put out some fires."

The cause of the crash was unclear and an investigation had been launched. The defense ministry said that the victims' bodies were transported to the Algerian army's central hospital in the town of Ain Naadja for identification.
