Childhood Memories

All of us have memories, both good and bad. They are a vital component of our bodies. They shape our personality since all our knowledge and past experiences are stored there. We have memories from long ago and also from recent times. Furthermore, some memories help us get by tough days and make us cheerful on good days. Memories are irreplaceable and they are very dear to us. However, childhood memories are the dearest to anyone. They are a reason for our smiles during adult life.

Childhood memories are very important in our lives. They make us remember the best times of our lives. They shape our thinking and future. When one has good childhood memories, they grow up to be happy individuals. However, if one has bad childhood memories, they terribly affect their adult life.

Childhood memories keep the inner child alive. No matter how old we get, there is always a child within each one of us. This child comes out at different times. For example, some may act like a child on seeing swings; the other may get excited like a child when they see ice cream. All this happens because our childhood memories remind us of the times associated with the things we get excited about. Therefore, childhood memories play a great role in our lives.
